

A special meeting of the directors of the Industrial Home for the Blind was held Wednesday night for the purpose of ratifying the report of the president of the Home, J. P. Irish. The report was a review of the history of the Board and the conduct of the institution since the change in management. It showed, among other things, that the management of the Home, which had been prevented under the old management by the exorbitant price and scarcity of broom corn, had been resumed in the early part of this month, and that the number of operatives have been increased from a few to about forty. This change was attributed, in the main, to a flexibility in the price of broom corn, of which the management was enabled to take advantage.

The second performance of "La Bohème" was given at the Grand Opera House last night with Melba as Mimì. "La Bohème" is the most beautiful opera of the French school produced in years, and the music of Mimì is especially adapted to Melba's exquisite voice. She sings the role not only with perfect technique, but she characterizes all her work, but with a tenderness and pathos that stamps her as a great dramatic artist as well as a peerless singer. The remainder of the cast was admirable, and the orchestra deserves a word of praise for its masterly handling of the music. The "Nightingale" of the last of the Nibelungen Ring, will be given with a great cast.

CELEBRATED CHEIROMAN

VISITS OUR CITY
DIRECT FROM THE EAST

Gifted

The conscientious student of science is seldom rewarded for his lustment of time and energy. Exhaustive investigation and painstaking application do not always bring the crown of glory. A notable exception is that of Cheironna and her development of the science of palmistry. The benefits of Cheironna's science have been recognized and applied by thousands as a practical and indispensable addition to the working formation of mankind.

Palmistry is a science. The lines on the hand are as an open book to Cheiroma and they tell the truth, your fate, your fortune. The past and future events of your life are there revealed.

What do you desire to know? The skilled palmist can tell. Heiroma's readings are helpful. They tell of your life, its weaknesses, its points of strength, your money affairs, travel, home, children, sickness, marriage, legacies, your success, spiritual faculties, your pathway in life, however intricate.

The spirituelle and remarkably gifted Cheiroma will please you and instruct you at the same time.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1900.
Did you hear from the turkey?

There was many a small boy who through the night didn't feel as thankful as the official proclamation called for.

Reports from Washington state that there are votes enough in sight to secure the passage of the Nicaragua canal bill. From the standpoint of wisdom it might be said that the Administration will get into a hole, no matter whether it succeeds in passing the canal or not.

A BORDER OUTLAW.

"Apache Kid," the notorious Indian outlaw, upon whose head the Government has placed a reward of $5,000, is again reported to have been killed in Mexico. This is about the truth that this murderous desperado has been reported among the dead, and each time after a short intermission he has turned up hale and hearty with a better appetite than ever for his bloodthirsty forays. He has terrorized the border territory between Arizona and Mexico for the last two decades, and if the people of that section had more tangible evidence of this Indian outlaw's death than that furnished by the press reports they would indeed give a sigh of relief.

The "Kid" has managed to elude all attempts to hold him in control, and he is not only outlawed by the whites but his own race had no use for him and would have gladly handed him over to the authorities were they not possessed of the idea that he had a charmed life and could not be killed. He carried on his depredations alone, and when he could round up a few border ruffians he extended his operations to the border villages and did not hesitate to attack the great mining camps. But he was a coward at heart, for he stalked away when threatened with any resistance. The lone and unprotected traveler was his chief prey, and his victims in this line ran up into the hundreds. He was one of the most ruthless and bloodthirsty villains that ever figured in border life, and it can be truly written that he failed to present one redeeming quality. It will be a long time before the horror of his depredations has been effaced from the memory of the border residents, and on both sides of the line there will be a feeling of security when it has been satisfactorily proven that the Apache Kid is no longer above the sea.

STATUS OF THE INDIAN.

The popular idea that the poor Indian is passing from this earth with his bow and arrow is not borne out by the statistics of the census nor by the statements of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Both are incontrovertible facts to show that there are as many Indians inhabiting this country as there were in the days when Columbus discovered that they were here. Then, too, the prevalent notion that the lot of the aborigine has been a hard one is at once dispelled when the facts and figures are laid out to demonstrate that our kind and beneficent Government has more than taken good care of the first possessor of the land, nearly $300,000,000 having been so far expended upon the Indian. In fact, the Indian, in fact, fares better in being an Indian than he would if he had shared the lot of the early white pioneers or had been left to provide for himself. When he believes himself by roaming on the reservation allotted to his use and refrains from troubling the state of other people he gets all he wants to eat with a few luxuries thrown in. He is given all kinds of agricultural implements for the use of him, and he is given a few dollars for his land. He is in constant receipt of cattle, sheep and horses. In fact, there is no ill placed upon the liberality of Uncle Sam when he comes to caring for his forest wards. He is a little conscience-stricken at having been compelled to invade the vast domain that the Indian claimed as an exclusive hunting preserve, and he has gone to the verge of prodigality in his endeavors to make full and complete amends.

But without the red man has proved ungrateful. He wanted that which no civilized government on earth would feel disposed to give off-hand, and this long-entitled want of the Indian was nothing less than an occasional gift of a few scalps, and, to make the matter worse, he desired to do his own picking. It took a long time and a big army of troops to finally convince the tribesmen that his demands were all out of proportion to his necessities, and at length his ideas on that subject have become more modern and he goes along better and finds the Indian agent more indulgent because of his good behavior.

The Indian population of this country is now declared to be 268,600 and shows, if anything, a slight increase over the figures obtained at the last census taken in 1870. Last year the Government expended over $110,000,000 on the children of the forest, two-thirds of that sum being paid out for subsistence. The policy now is to try to induce the Indian to go to work, a contingency that he abhors to his very marrow. But if he refuses to do what is better than just think of the days when his ancestors roamed this great land he will in future receive such scanty treatment from the commissary department of the Bureau of Indian Affairs that he will find it necessary to take a tighter grip on his belt unless he wants to go to bed with that peculiar feeling people possess who have failed to get a square meal during the progress of the day. The old and decrepit will get the usual allowance of rations, so the young buck will have to exhibit symptoms of industry until the happy days come when he can join the list of the aged. The official report winds up the poetical effusions devoted to the poor savage and shows that in all these long years he has had the sort of kind of a snap, the full details of which, if generally known, would cause a good many people to wish a kind fate had made them Indians.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

In view of the adoption at the recent election of certain amendments to the constitution, the question has arisen in some quarters as to how and when they will go into effect. The ideas possessed by inquirers on the subject have not been clarified by an examination of the Constitution itself, for although the issue is directly treated there, an absence of details still leaves much of doubt to the lay investigator. The provision in question, which is part of article 13, after reciting how the Legislature shall pass proposed amendments before the voters, declares: "If the people shall approve such amendment or amendments, or any of them, by a majority of the qualified electors voting thereon, such amendment or amendments shall become a part of this Constitution."

Lawyers interpret this to mean that the amendments are decided one way or another on election day itself, and if they are carried become part of the Constitution the moment the vote is determined. In order to obtain an official confirmation of the vote, however, certain regular procedure is necessary; that is to say, the various county boards, after completing their counts, forward their results to the Secretary of State at Sacramento, who, after tallying each list, prepares a grand total, which becomes the official showing of the action of the voters as regards the constitutional amendments, and, in fact, all other matters submitted to them election day. While, therefore, in theory the amendments become part of the Constitution or are rejected on the very day the voters cast their vote, in practice nothing official is determined until the certificates of result are issued by the Secretary of State. This proceeding, however, is purely a formal one, as there is no occasion for the Secretary of State to report to any other department or to the Legislature save in the case of a Governor, for which office a special provision is made.

Those amendments, therefore, that carried last election day are already part and parcel of the Constitution, though a distinction should be drawn between those that become effective themselves and those that are merely permissive. For example, the amendments exempting church property, the James Lick school and county and municipal bonds from taxation are already in effect and assessors must take official cognizance of them when the rolls are made up on March 1st next. The amendments in favor of a primary law permitting the Stanford trusts and allowing the payment of certain local indebtedness in San Francisco all require further action, however, the first two named being in the hands of the Legislature, while the control of the last is vested in the San Francisco Supervisors.

The vote on the amendments was a remarkable one, in that such unusual interest was taken in the various issues by the people at large. No matter how meritorious a proposed amendment may have been it has in the past been impossible to arouse the voters to affirmative action, but on this occasion they went right down the line on the subject, adopting six amendments and defeating two—those creating Courts of Appeal and relating to stenographers in Superior Courts. This unexpected voting is highly encouraging and promising for the future, for it shows that the people are taking an active interest in their own affairs and are disposed to thoroughly wench every issue presented to them.

THE THANKSGIVING DAY HORROR.

The sickening tragedy at the Pacific glass works yesterday, which has plunged San Francisco in mourning, was incidental to the annual inter-collegiate football game, but was entirely disconnected with it. Nobody can be blamed for the sad affair, unless it be the police and those in charge of the premises for permitting a crowd of enthusiastic and incoherent spectators to gather upon a frail roof. However, it does not appear that anyone realized the terrible danger till the appalling accident occurred. It is awful to think of such a hideous disaster attending the festivities of Thanksgiving Day. It is all the more pathetic that it occurred within sight of the joyous throng celebrating a gala event for the youth of California. In one respect it was an allegory of war. On one side were seen the heroic struggles of the contestants under the eyes of applauding thousands; there was the pomp and glory of battle. On the other side are the scenes of death and despair that are the portion of the non-combatants, the woes of the incidental spectators, on whom are visited the exterminating penalties of a contest in which they do not figure. Only one unbecoming suggestion is conveyed by this sorrowful event, which is that steps will be taken to prevent such shocking calamities in future.

Professor Cole has made some new and interesting discoveries regarding the habits of the prehistoric cliff dwellers of New Mexico. His observations show that they lived in buildings constructed in the form of terraces, and that their sole means of communication was by climbing from one elevation to the other. There was a significant meaning, therefore, when friends on parties in those days remarked that they would meet in some other "clime."

Chicago's new corn king is said to be in absolute control of the market, as he has a firm grip on all the corn in sight. They will make him acknowledge the corn, though, in a different way later on, for it is not likely that he will fare any better than the other young Napoleons who have from time to time invaded the stock market. The higher up he gets the farther he will have to fall.

An Englishman announces his intention of cornering all the gold in the world. What good will it do him if he gets it, for if nobody has anything to purchase it with, it will be so much dead weight on his hands. We might be inclined to even give Bryan's free silver a chance in the event of the contingency in question, which, however, is about as remote a possibility as can be imagined.

Labor is paid ten cents a day in Ecuador. A man who "feels like thirty cents" in that part of the world must be akin to a blond financier in this country.

ACTOR WALTER BENTLEY WAS A SUCCESS.

The engagement of Walter Bentley, the well-known actor, came to a close at the Macdonough Monday and Tuesday, December 3d and 4th. It was a success, and he is now on his way to the coast. He is a native of New York and has been in the theatre for many years. He is a very popular actor and has many friends in Oakland. He is now on his way to the coast and will be in San Francisco in a few days.

OAKLAND DUDES ARE AGAIN DEFEATED.

Everything seemed easy for the Oakland Dudes in their game with the Stocktons yesterday afternoon at Recreation Park, up to the sixth inning. Until that time the Stocktons had been in a losing position, but in the sixth inning they turned the tables and won the game. The Dudes were defeated by a score of 10 to 5.

HERMANN COMING TO THE MACDONOUGH.

Herrman the magician comes to the Macdonough Monday and Tuesday, December 3d and 4th. He is the greatest of all the masters of legions and some of his tricks are positively uncanny. His performance is not only interesting but amusing. The five musical Noises, who assist in his entertainment, are a strong feature of the performance, and their efforts never fail to win hearty applause.

ONE WOMAN

With two faces; one face bright with health, the other face pinched and drawn by illness. Many a woman can take the portrait of herself but but a few years ago, and holding it by her face in the mirror realize a similar change.

Behind this change in form and feature is always disease, and generally disease which affects the womanly organism. The backache and bearing-down pains put a heavy strain on the nervous system. There is loss of sleep, lack of appetite, and, as a natural result, loss of strength and flesh.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures diseases of the womanly organs. It establishes regularity, drives enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"Words cannot tell what I suffered for thirteen years with womb trouble and dragging-down pains through my hips and back," writes Mrs. John Jackson, of Greenwich, Avonida Ore., N.W. "I can't describe the misery it was to be on my feet long at a time. I could not eat nor sleep. Others have told me to take Dr. Pierce's medicine, and I thought I would try them. Had not taken one bottle till I was feeling well after I had taken five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I was like a new woman. Could eat and sleep and do all my own work. I would entreat of any lady suffering from female weakness to give Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a fair trial, for I know the benefit she will receive."

a baby or unmanly act, or a wrong to the humblest being on God's earth. Always generous to his friends, his purse open at all times to the poor and needy, a sense of honor, right and justice so acute that no power on earth could ever drive him from it when in the performance of official duty. What more could the Redeemer exact of mortal man? No man is absolutely perfect, and yet, to my thinking, no man came nearer being that than Tom Cunningham. I don't believe that dear old Tom had an enemy, for cause, in the wide world.

If ever plain, common mortal existed that was truly lovable in character, then that man was our departed friend, Thomas Cunningham. I know that I have honored and respected him all my life, and I also know that he was worthy of the respect of every man, woman and child in California, because his great heart went out to them all.

There was no malice in Tom for anybody, not even his enemies. The dear old companion of yore has gone before me over the river. The gates are ajar; he has passed from time to eternity. If Tom had any sins recorded against him I hope the Recording Angel will blot them out, that no more will be known of them forever, and that the good he has done in mortal life may live after him. May the dear old boy rest in peace in the earnest prayer of his old comrade,

HARRY N. MORSE.

S. P. COOKS HAVE SMALLPOX.

Porters on Southern Train Stricken Down in This City.

Considerable alarm has been caused in the Health Department over the report of the existence of four cases of smallpox within this city. It has been found that William Turner has been lying sick from the disease at the Prescott House for nearly a month. The other cases, discovered within the past two days, are those of William Jackson, 2601 Grove street; E. Sanders, 519 Fifth street; and Henry Azuma, 521 Castro street. There is another case known to exist but the afflicted man has not been located.

The sick men are colored cooks and porters in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company, and the health officials have been able to trace each case to the fact that the four men were sent from here to New Orleans and that when they were sent out on the road an unknown man, a passenger, was found to be suffering from smallpox, and from him the others contracted the disease.

Health Officer Todd has ordered a strict quarantine over all infected places and believes that with proper treatment the patients will recover.

Bitten By His Dog.

George Wright, of 268 Second street, was a little too gay with his pet dog yesterday afternoon while the pup was gnawing a bone and the canine resented the familiarity. It passed up the bone, but did not overlook Wright's left hand. He grabbed the fat and held on until Wright had choked him nearly into insensibility. The man's hand was badly lacerated. His injuries were dressed at the Receiving Hospital by Steward Scherert.

WILL PROTECT THE CONSUMERS

Board of Health Will Look After the Milk Supply.

In the face of the sensational report made by City Bacteriologist R. A. Archibald concerning the startling condition of milk supplied in this city comes a prediction from the same source of the probability that the Board of Health may shortly take steps to inaugurate some new and important methods regulating the milk supply.

The result of the microscopic tests made by Bacteriologist Archibald, showing that in fifteen drops of the local milk 6500 bacteria of various species were discovered, has attracted the attention of scientists throughout the State.

"There are many persons in the dairy business," said Bacteriologist Archibald, "who have very little knowledge of the importance of their vocation and there are very few who have made that vocation a practical study."

"You have no idea how few there are that know the component parts of the milk they deliver to the hundreds of consumers. Many know absolutely nothing about milk."

The time is rapidly approaching when the health authorities will inaugurate a new system regulating the dairy business, when dairymen will have to qualify as to their knowledge, on the merits of which they will be granted their licenses, and not otherwise."

GATES GETS A RECEIVER.

Scores a Point in the Trust Company Fight.

Associated Press Dispatches by

The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 30.—Judge Thayer in the United States District Court has appointed J. M. Dick of Kansas City receiver of the Guardian Trust Company, of which A. E. Stillwell is president. The appointment was made in the suit brought recently by John W. Gates of Chicago and other stockholders. The petition for a receiver was filed in Kansas City on October 23 last, on the day before the stockholders were to have held a meeting to elect a new Board of Directors. The Gates petition also asked for an injunction to prevent the holding of the meeting. Judge Phillips granted the injunction and set a later date for a hearing on the receiver's question. Gates et al. contended that Stillwell took advantage of them in the character of securities placed in a reorganization of the company. The bonds of the old Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf Railroad (now the Kansas City Southern, in which it is interested) figures in the bill, and the contention was made that the stockholders were in danger of losing $100,000 if Stillwell were allowed to carry out his plans.

DEFENDS HER SISTER'S CHILD

Sensational Question Asked in Campbell Estate Case.

The final account of the executors of the estate of the late Alexander Campbell was approved by Judge Greene today, but the order of distribution was not made on account of an unexpected complication which will tie up the matter for many months.

The executors were allowed $24 for their services, and their attorneys, Mastick, Belcher and Mastick, were awarded $50.

It was shown by the final account that there was not a sufficient balance in the estate to meet all the legacies provided for in the will. The law provides that the beneficiaries who are not blood relatives of testators must suffer first in similar instances.

Acting on this provision the executors desired to cut down bequests made to Mrs. Hannah McConnell and Mrs. Margaret Miller.

Mrs. McConnell testified that her uncle, James Campbell, was Alexander Campbell's father and that therefore she was first cousin of the deceased. There was no dispute over the contention, but it was announced that there would be later.

The witness was then questioned as to the relationship of Margaret Miller. "She is my niece," said Mrs. McConnell. "Her mother was my sister. She married a man of the same name."

It is not a fact that Fannie McAllister was never married, and that hence you Mrs. Miller know the name of the latter's father? Inquired Martin Stevens representing the sons of Alexander Campbell.

Mrs. McConnell admitted that she was too young at the time of Mrs. Miller's birth to know anything about her parentage.

"She is my sister's child—I know that," said the witness, "and that is enough for me."

Attorney Walley, representing Mrs. Miller, had a hurried consultation with his client, after which he asked that a further hearing of the matter be set for a later date, as he had been taken completely by surprise by the nature of the testimony.

Judge Greene said he would take it up December 10th.

Associated Press Dispatches by

The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. MADRID, Nov. 30.—The improvements in the condition of the czar continue, as shown by the following bulletin issued by his physicians this morning: "The czar passed an excellent day yesterday and he slept very well last night. His Majesty's condition is very satisfactory. At 9 last night his temperature was 37.5; pulse 66. This morning his temperature was 36.4; pulse, 62."

THE ARMY OF HEALTH.

The Army in the Philippines Insignificant Compared With This One.

If all the people in the United States, Canada and Great Britain who make daily use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets could be assembled together it would make an army that would outnumber our army of one hundred thousand by at least five to one.

Men and women, who are broken down in health, are only a part of the thousands who use this popular preparation, the greater number are people who are in fair health but who know that the way to keep well is to keep the digestion perfect and use Stuart's Tablets as regularly as meal time comes to insure good digestion and proper assimilation of food.

Prevention is always better than cure and disease can find no foothold if the digestion is kept in good working order by the daily use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Mr. Thomas Steele, Mayfield, Calif., says: "Have used and recommended Stuart's Tablets because there is nothing like them to keep the stomach right."

Mrs. Lella Dively, 462 Plummer St., Pittsburg, Pa., writes: "I wish everyone to know how grateful I am for Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I suffered for a long time and did not know what ailed me. I lost flesh right along until one day I noticed an advertisement of these tablets and immediately bought a 50 cent box at the drug store. I am only on the second box and am gaining flesh and color. I have at last found something that has reached my ailment."

From Mrs. Del. Eldred, San Francisco, Wis., "I was taken dizzy very suddenly during the hot weather of the past summer. After ten days of constant dizziness I went to our local physician, who said my liver was torpid and I had over heated my blood; he doctoring me for two weeks without much improvement. I finally thought of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets (which I had used long before for various bad feelings) and the first three tablets helped me."

They are easily the best all around family medicine I ever used."

The army of people who take Stuart's Tablets are mostly people in fairly good health, and who keep well by taking them regularly after meals. They contain no opiates, cocaine or any cathartic or injurious drugs, simply the natural peptones and digestives which every weak stomach lacks.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by druggists everywhere in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

DEATH CLAIMS O. C. KIRK.

Passed Away at His Home in East Oakland.

After an illness extending over half a dozen years, which it was known could not be eradicated, Owen Charles Kirk, the well-known plumber, gasfitter and well pipe manufacturer and ex-member of the City Council, passed away last night at 9 o'clock at his home, 381 Fifth avenue, in the first year of his age.

Mr. Kirk had suffered almost unconsciously from liver affection, but it was an attack of pneumonia which finally caused death.

The end came peacefully, his approach having been anticipated by the patient and his family, the members of the latter being at the bedside and bidding the husband and father a last, sorrowing farewell.

"O. C. Kirk," which was the way he was best known, was a native of County Monaghan, Ireland. He immigrated to this country when a mere child with his parents. He received a common school education in Buffalo, N. Y. There he also learned the trade of plumbing and gas-fitting.

He came to California in 1865 and established a place of business in his calling at 292 East Twelfth street, which place he conducted with a well-pipe making annex up to the time of his death.

In 1871 Mr. Kirk was married in Vallejo to Miss Julia Ryan. He established his home in this city and his widow and eight children survive him.

Mr. Kirk was industrious, thrifty and successful in business. He gradually acquired a competence which comprised realty and personality with some very fine securities. His estate is variously estimated to be worth between $5000 and $7000. With the certainty of his death apparent to him, Mr. Kirk settled all his business and estate to his wife and children, and that of all the members of his family, so that there will be no contest over the property in the courts.

The deceased for three terms was a member of the Council of this city. He was a Democrat, but, despite this fact, he was able to gain enough votes to return him from the Seventh Ward, the ward of his residence, to this city. His first election took place in 1877. He was successful on what was called the Independent ticket, which was composed of Democrats and Republicans, the latter of whom were followers of the delegates from the Third, Fourth and Seventh Wards in a Republican city convention who walked out of the gathering when the nomination of a certain candidate for the Mayoralty was decided to them.

It was a certainty. It was decided between these delegates and the Democrats to make an eclectic ticket, half of the members of which should be Democrats and half Republicans.

The combination resulted in the election of John R. Gluscock for Mayor or by a large majority, as also the election of Mr. Kirk as Councilman from the Seventh Ward. He served for one year, as the term of office at that time was only one year.

In 1888 he ran against and defeated George H. Willms, who was the Republican nominee.

In 1893 the term of Councilman was extended to two years, and Mr. Kirk was again elected.

He was a hard worker and succeeded in doing a great deal to improve and beautify the ward through his position. His family comprises Henry S. Kirk, Journalist; Joseph A. and Clement, who succeeded to the father's plumbing business; Edward L., a student of St. Ignace College; Julian, a student at St. Joseph's Academy; Loretta, Kathryn and Rose.

The deceased was a member of Brooklyn Lodge of Workmen, Clinton Lodge Knights of Honor, and treasurer of the Master Plumbers' Association.

The funeral will take place tomorrow. Services will be held in St. Anthony's Church, East Oakland.

SENATOR DAVIS LIES IN STATE.

Hundreds View the Remains of Eminent Statesman.

The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 30.—The mortal remains of the late United States Senator Davis, which lay in state in the Governor's room in the Capitol, were viewed by hundreds of people today who silently filed through the room in a constant stream.

Senator Davis was entitled by virtue of his office to the escort of a Major General commanding, which in this State would mean a regiment of Infantry and the battalion of artillery. Such an escort could not be readily mustered and did not meet with the approval of the Senator's family, who desired that the services be as simple as possible.

The military escort, therefore, consisted of Company D, First Regiment, Minnesota National Guard, most of whom were veterans of the Philippine campaign, as members of the famous Minnesota Volunteers, and a detachment of Battery A, Minnesota National Guard, under Lieutenant Allen, who acted as body bearers.

Leaving the house at 9:30 o'clock, the funeral procession, headed by mounted and foot detachments of police, marched slowly to the Capitol.

The coffin was carried between lines of mourning citizens into the building, where it was placed on an catafalque in the Governor's south chamber.

BOUGHT GOODS ON A WORTHLESS CHECK.

Judge Stetson, this morning, turned over to Nathan Joseph of San Francisco, the agates and mineral specimens which were found in the room of A. B. Romick, in a hotel in Berkeley in which he committed suicide last August.

LOST BY ONE KICK.

Berkeley Boys Although Losers Played Best Game.

State Students are Scored for Ungentlemanly Conduct.

By J. E. BAKER.

Stanford 5, Berkeley 0

The score went against California by the turn of one of those nice hazards in critical moments which make up the element of chance in all affairs of life, from football to the fate of nations.

The difference between victory and defeat may be summed up as the difference between a lucky and an unlucky kick, but it must be said that Traister's kicking was in better form than More's throughout. To this fact alone Stanford owes her victory. Had More been as effective as Traister, in this respect California should have scored twice—near the close of the first half and shortly after the opening of the second. In the first instance he was too wild and in the second he was too slow, giving Shaker a chance to rush in and block him. In all other respects California played a great game, and in reality the better game.

Stanford had the better of the play in the second half, but was notably outplayed in the first half. Pringle's men buckled the Cardinals back over the field until it seemed that they must surely win. The Cardinals would have won if their handling of the ball had been equal to their rushes and if Foster's punting had been as good as his work. Gummerson made a bad fumble at a critical moment, and the price of it was Stanford's score, but he atoned for this mishap by magnificent play in breaking the Stanford line. He shared the honors with Captain Pringle and Locomotive Smith in breaking down Stanford's defense. Pringle is a splendid player and yesterday he played a game that did a man's heart good to see. It was such clean, effective work as marks true university sport.

Shaker played a great game for Stanford, but his work was not so attractive as Pringle's nor does he have that noble height that makes the California's captain appear like a son of Sam on the field. He is a player of a rare type, and tomorrow on the field under the "Varsity" banner is the sign of professional football. Berkeley's men are university men, and tomorrow on the field under the "Varsity" banner is the sign of professional football. They are clean representatives of the student body, and mostly native Californians. With Stanford they are not exactly the same. The cracks who sported the Cardinal were mostly from other States and they do not seem so truly representative of the class room as the wearers of the Blue and Gold.

Yost must have done some effective coaching between halves, for the offensive work of his team was much better in the second half than it was in the first. Evidently he had watched California's play to some advantage, as the work of his team proved. And it must be said that Stanford seemed in a trifle better playing condition at the end of the game than their opponents. But they averaged three pounds per man heavier than Berkeley and weight tells in time in a contest like football, where it is a constant shock of brains.

Yost was so eager in his coaching that he carried it on the field and had his team penalized once for his breach of rules. His conduct during the play was not a model. Which calls to mind an abuse that always mars football and tends to degrade the sport. It is opposed to the ethics of the game for the boundary to be lined with the partisans of the teams. Breaches of the rules and unfair play will inevitably occur. Everybody should be kept outside the ball except the necessary attendants on the players.

This lining up of students along the boundary provoked heat blood and worse play. It should be summarily put down. The one faring incident was the disqualification of Clay of the Californians for slugging Seely, but it was under the stress of provocation. It was just after a California man had been deliberately fouled by a Cardinal, and therefore must be viewed leniently, even if it cannot be excused. However, it is regrettable that the Blue and Gold rooters did not take their defeat gracefully.

Berkeley had suffered a defeat that was honorable in every respect, but some of their misguided partisans of the student body acted in a way after the game was over to make the ludicrous grove. They invaded the field where the wearers of the Cardinal were romping in wild glee, and showed a disposition to wrangle and brawl. This was in execrable form. A true sportsman is a good loser, and a game fighter half retrieves his fame by accepting defeat with grace and fortitude. The conduct of the Stanford students last year when California carried off the trophy of victory was in notable and bright contrast to the behavior of some of the U. C. undergrads yesterday.

A word as to Coach Kelly. The playing of his team yesterday was a tribute to his skill as a coach and his tactics on the football field. The work of his men was better than that of Stanford's, which he says he is a great deal, for it is a distinct triumph to beat the complete formation and superb drill of Yost's heavyweights.

Don't let Kelly feel that his team ought to have won the game, and so it would but for the happy chance or mischance which makes one kick straight and another not quite straight. A loss by one field goal is not a defeat by any means, although the record is on the wrong side the loser. It is no discredit to Kelly nor to the work of his team.

It was the first game ever played between California and Stanford.

MAYOR SNOW MAKES DEFENSE OF HIS ACTS.

Tells Why He Would Not Remove the Fire Chief.

Favors the Changes Suggested in the Charter.

Mayor H. W. Snow addressed the North Oakland Improvement Club Wednesday evening on the charter amendments. He told of the changes suggested by the amendments. The Mayor then spoke as follows:

"You are aware that the Mayor, the City Engineer and the City Attorney are ex-officio Police and Fire Commissioners, having control under the charter of the police and fire departments of the city. At the very commencement of the present administration the members of the Council, at an informal gathering, made the astounding request that the Chief of the Fire Department be removed, and also his first assistant, and that two men, whose names were given, be appointed in their places. No citizen of good judgment, having the welfare of the city and the efficiency of the fire department at heart, could have granted this request. The Mayor did not, and the present Council has never forgiven him.

"I assumed the office of chief executive with the intention of granting every request made by the Council that would not jeopardize the interests which I had been elected to guard. This request did not involve the welfare of the city. The matter was carefully weighed. The Councilmen, whose attitude toward the chief executive could make the administration efficient or inefficient; the influential newspaper, whose owners were in sympathy with the extraordinary request; the office seekers, who desired to use the reorganized fire and police departments—all these were considered. The request of the Council involved too much and was refused. The attitude of the legislative body has since been one of disapproval of this act of the Mayor, finding expression often in the last eighteen months, to the disadvantage of the city.

"Had the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners been constituted as it is by this amendment proposed it shall be, requests by the City Council or members of the Council in matters like the foregoing would not involve the chief executive. The proposed amendment is desirable for this reason. It will also place the police and fire departments as far from the illegitimate influence of the Council as it is possible to place them. For this reason also it is a desirable amendment."

John L. Daulton made a speech in opposition to the amendments. He said he believed matters were best as they now exist.

Will Give to Poor.
